California Leads --- in Taxes

It has been pleasant to contemplate, from time to time, how California leads in almost everything. In recovery, in sunshine, in agriculture, in mining—in numberless matters, California leads the Nation.

It will not be so pleasant to contemplate one other thing in which this state is ahead of all others.

California's per capita expenditure for state and local government is greater than that of any other state!

The cost to each of us is $107.34. For Washington and Oregon it is $86.71 per capita. For the Rocky Mountain States it is $78. For the Middle West it is $68. For the Great Lakes and mid-Atlantic States, it is $88.04. For the Southern States it is $43.54. And there is little doubt of the exactness of the figure compiled for California by the State Chamber of Commerce. It it, actually, $107.34 per capita.

Perhaps we have better schools, out here, and therefore must spend more for them. Perhaps we have better government, although there would be grounds for some argument on this point. In any case, such a disclosure as this ought to stir the apathetic voter sufficiently so that he will demand full measure for his money.

But even though California leads the nation in per capita cost of government, the entire nation is not doing so badly in this respect. Total debts of all governments, state, and municipal and Federal, have soared to $49,000,000,000. This is more than eight times all the money now in circulation in this country.

To give you some idea of what $49,000,000,000 means, if that amount of single dollar bills were laid end to end, they would circle the world 185½ times!

We'll Get By

In the aftermath of the AAA overthrow, there is one thing being overlooked by both those who view the Court's action with excessive alarm, and those who point to New Deal policies with excessive fear.

They are forgetting that neither the Supreme Court nor the New Deal has overthrown the average American's faith in his country. There is no reason for anyone, whichever side he is on, to throw up his hands and declare that the country is going to the dogs. It isn't.

A majority of farmers, it is true, regard the decision as a heavy blow to agriculture. But the ultimate effect of it on the farmer's welfare may not be so harmful as many believe. Now that he has had a lift out of the depths, and now that prosperity is returning, his position may very possibly continue to improve.

Furthermore, after this AAA experience, it is more generally agreed everywhere and by both political parties that there must be some sort of definite program to help the farmer.

As to those who claim that the Administration's "disregard" for the Constitution is sending this country to wrack and ruin—well, their fears, if not synthetic, are largely groundless. True, this tendency may be leading toward certain things a lot of people don't want. But not—no, certainly not "wrack and ruin."

It would take an awful lot of wracking to ruin these United States.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

The Faculty Flag Pledge

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—I never heard of a law compelling a private individual in times of peace to take an oath to defend our flag and respect our institutions. Neither do I know of laws compelling us to give public jobs to men and women who refuse to take such an oath or requiring us to leave them in their jobs should they violate that oath. From the President of this country on down, the run of officeholders must swear to uphold the Constitution and support the government. Should any one of them wilfully fail to do so, the offender is liable to removal—amid loud cheers! Then why not include teachers and college professors, those whose high task it is to mould youth into stuff fit for citizenship and civic responsibility?

Irvin S. Cobb

Why should they be suffered to peddle sedition and yet go on drawing salaries from the public fund—these people who claim they have conscientious scruples when what most of us think they really suffer from is Communistic biliousness? And for the students, as I understand it, the right of free speech and the gift of free education do not mean license to spout treason on a campus or scorn America in a classroom.

A red flag fits an auction sale, but I don't believe I'd ever get used to seeing it afloat over a district schoolhouse.

Political Plagiarism

POLITICS certainly produces copycats. First, the young Republicans meet, being greeted by a typical bounding juvenile, who's the last surviving drummer boy of Shiloh. Then the young Democrats come rallying as fast as wheelchairs will bring them, with their breakfast shawls and their ear-trumpets. The self-proclaimed "young" leader of any party is usually somebody who hopes to set a patriotic example to his grandchildren and at the same time get the old job back.

The Republicans hold a Grass-Roots convention. So this month at Atlanta there'll be what you might call a grass-widow convention for the revolting southern Democrats—absolutely too revolting for words, to hear Jim Farley talk. You see, they've been divorced, but the decree is not yet final.

Southern Democrats are great hands for seceding and remaining so every day in the year except just one day. On election, they become reconciled long enough to vote the straight Democratic ticket. Twenty minutes later, they're off the reservation again. I hear a number of bankers will attend. This would seem to indicate a changing trend. For quite a while after 1929, very few bankers went to Atlanta voluntarily.

Going Nuts in Hollywood

IF, WHILE touring Los Angeles, you see a bushy-headed, wild-eyed, elderly gentleman aimlessly wandering about, don't jump too soon at the conclusion that he's a typical specimen of our famous coterie of hermits.

You see, they laid out Los Angeles and environs on the ground-plan of a drunken angleworm, and the system of numbering houses is further designed to encourage raving insanity. So what you behold may merely be an ex-resident of the Middle West, who came out here years ago to retire and bought him a cozy bungalow and incautiously went for a stroll and has been trying ever since to find his way back home again.

Not all the nuts were nutty when they first arrived. Many of them got that way trying to trace street addresses. After a year and a half here, I'm beginning to have trouble with the knee-reflexes myself.

But there's one consolation about going crazy in Hollywood. Unless you leave town, nobody would ever notice it.

Gen. Liggett's Passing

SO HUNTER LIGGETT is dead at seventy-eight—the only contemporary lieutenant general of the United States army. For 50-odd years, he wore with gallantry and with honor the uniform of his country.

He fought Indians; fought border-bandits; fought Spaniards in Cuba; fought Germans in France; and, at the end, fought off death for many dragging months.

I saw him overseas, commanding our splendid First corps, which he made more splendid still. He was as plain as an old shoe, and as easy to get along with. His officers respected him, his soldiers loved him. They went where he sent 'em, and if they failed in their objective, they didn't come back. They went instead to report at the sills of the judgment seat the reason why they failed.

Behind his back, the Buck privates called him "Uncle Ligg"—that ought to give you the idea.

They'll like him over there—Israel Putnam, and Stonewall Jackson, and Forrest, and Grant, and all the rest of our real ones.

WELCOME FOR IRISH SHAMROCK BUT SOD BANNED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16. — The good old Gaelic custom of shipping shamrock to the United States in observance of St. Patrick's day occasioned the comment today by A. C. Fleury, chief of the Bureau of Plant Quarantine, State Department of Agricutlture, that the shamrock is more than welcome but it should not be accompanied by the native Irish sod in which the famed little plant is grown.

For many years sentiment has dictated the sending of the specimens of shamrock by the Irish people to their kinfolk and friends in this country and this state, the favorite time for such being around St. Patrick's day. Often this sentiment prompts the sending of not only the shamrock but also the bit of the old sod in which it is growing.

Under quarantine regulations it is necessary that this earth be removed before the shamrock can be delivered, as it may carry serious agsicultural pests not now found in California.

The state records show that 807 packages of shamrock were receved in th customs mail at San Francisco over St. Patrick's day last year and in a few instances the shipments were accompanied by the Irish soil. In the few days prior to March 17, 1934, only 403 packaegs containing shamrock were received, indicating that the "crop" in the mails from Ireland has doubled in one year.

But in every instance, where the soil was removed by the quarantine inspectors the leafy portion of the plant was carefully saved and sent on to its destination which means that the state recognizes sentiment as well as the necessity for strict enforcement of the quarantine laws.

Miss Thelma Tefft, who has purchased the Bowman Beauty Parlor on Broad street, has been a talented employee of Mrs Bowman for the past two years and has many friends here.

LUMBER TALKS

When Pluvius turns the spiggot on
And keeps us all in doors,

Their precious books and toys.

When the rains descend we take stock of interiors and find time for long deferred tasks that will add to the appearance, comfort and convenience of home, office and store.

Now is the time for that job of painting, for putting up needed shelves, and turning dusty attic and basement space into play rooms, closets or dens.

We can supply you with paints, wall board, lumber—in fact every thing needed for your rainy day activities. Call, write or phone; your inquirfes and orders will be given prompt attention.

ITURBI, SPANISH PIANIST, COMING TO SACRAMENTO

Jose Iturbi, celebrated Spanish pianist will be the artist attraction at Memorial Auditorium, Friday evening, January 24. He comes to Sacramento as the fourth of this season's musical events sponsored by the Sacramento Music Series.

Iturbi's programs are famous for their variety and catholicity. He is interested in ultra modern music and his listeners are always thrilled with the wide range of his concert pieces. He is also interested in the more conservative music of Beethoven and Bach. Says this master musician: "I cannot say that I am a specialist in the music of any composer. I think the ultra-moderns have more or less lost their way and do not know quite where they are going. Much of what they write seems to me to be music to be read rather than to be played. In that sense it is absorbingly interesting.

"Let us have a modern movement, let us have music by all means, but let us respect what is good, no matter of what era. Benedetto Marcello once wrote, 'In composing an opera it is not necessary to study the old composers, because they have not studied the modern composers, and it is not necessary to study the modern composers, because they do not know the 'old composers.' In other words, be yourself. If you feel in the modern iodiom, write in it but do not jeer at Mozart and Bach and Haydn.

"It is told of Brahms, of all people, that when someone made a slighting remark about Mendelssohn, thinking to please him, he said, 'You must not speak ill of Mendelssohn! He was the last of the great ones.'

"Of course, there are certain musicians at the present time who do their composing. I am told, by chemical formulas. Can that be anything but a pose? You might write a piece and say it described a beefsteak but I cannot think it would be a success as music, and it certainly would be a failure as a dinner!

"The danger of too much of this sort of thing, however, is not so much what it is now but what it is leading to. Where is the youth of today going to end that knows so little of beauty? I mean the youth, who claims that ultra-modernism is the be-all and the end-all in music, painting, sculpture, poetry, architecture, and all the other things in which the restless spirit can be expressed, even in behavior?

"It seems to me that its only salvation lies in holding on to what is fine in the past, while accepting the present and the future. The reverse of that, of course, is the dried-up pedant who lives only in the past. That is my artistic creed, and I believe it to be a safe one."

Tickets on sale at popular prices, Ye Music Shoppe, 1014 10th Street, Sacramento, California.

RUSSIA NO PARADISE ENGINEER REPORTS

Mr. Ed Martz of Nevada City has practically recovered from an operation on his left shoulder and returned to work at the Murchie mine Saturday evening.

Mr. Martz, accompanied by his wife, spent two years in Russia, one year in the Ural mountains, and one in southern Russian or Armenia. They had an opportunity to see a large section of the country while he was superintendent of mines for the Soviet Government.

Their description of that country does not coincide with the bright propadanda stories spread in the United States. He stated that those who think Russia a paradise should go over and try it for a year. Mr. Martz met two men deported from United States at about the same time Haywood was deported to Russia and who had been there several years.

Mr. Martz stated there is no doubt in his mind that if the Russia people were not forced to live as they do they would not tolerate conditions. "We think conditions bad here on account of the depression," he said. "But think of great multitudes subsisting on bread and not sufficient, of the heavy, black, bread to properly nourish them at all times. They are not allowed to say a whispered word against the government under penalty of imprisonment or death. Imagine living among thousands who are hungry! People have to have permits to secure limited amounts of food."

Mr. Martz had a gold deposit in a bank in the United States and a guaranteed salary, while others who went over later, received rubles, which are worthless outside of Russia and they had to leave the country with only $25 and passage to New York after finishing three year contracts.

RIDGE TOWNSEND CLUB HEARS GOOD PROGRAM

The French Corral Townsend Club met at the San Juan school house last Sunday with Miles Tilden president. W. E. Moulton, vice-president; Frank Miller, secretary and Mrs. Alice Dupzyk, treasurer. The newly elected officers will serve for the ensuing term. An interesting program was enjoyed. Three school girls sang with music by Jack Kessler. A prayer was read by Katherine Braithwaite, author.

Mr. Henry Huckins delivered a poem of his own production on past and present gold mining. The advisory board and the various committees were elected and their duties outlined by the president. Miles Tilden, president, was elected as delegate with Mr. W. E. Moulton, vice president, alternate to the convention to be held at Roseville, on Jaunary 26. The club will meet Sunday, January 19 at French Corral. A dainty lunch of coffe, cake will be served. The associate membership of the club and all visitors will be heartily welcomed.

Mr. Fred H. Garrison, superintendent of the California highway maintenance crew of the Nevada City district, has been elected president of the California State Employees Association, succeeding Capt. G. W. Brown, of Marysville. Mr. Garrison was also chosen as a delegate of the Peach Bowl Chapter to attend the council meeting to be held on February third in San Francisco.

PAPA SURPRISED TO SEE BABY'S PICTURE IN PAPER

OFFICERS ELECTED

The ceremony is semi-public and invitations have been sent to Odd Fellows, their wives, Rebekahs and their husbands. Carey S. Arbogast, District Deputy Grand Patriarch of the Encampment, will be the installing officer. A banquet will be served after the meeting. At the meeting, February 10, Dr. Tully Knoles will speak on the "Responsibility of American Citizenship." Dr. Knoles address was greatly enjoyed last year and the club is planning to secure a hall so as to make the event a public one, if possible.

A pot luck supper will be served at the next meeting of the club, which is on Monday, January 27.

Mrs. J. Culver of French Corral is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Chatty, in San Francisco.

IT COST $15 TO DRIVE ON WRONG SIDE OF ROAD

CAMPTONVILLE, Jan. 14.—Driving on the wrong side of the road and coming face to face with a speed cop is not the most advisable thing to do. That is what LeRoy Tardiville found out Sunday afternoon when, near Freemans Crossing, he caused Traffic Officer A. J. Ponta to stop abruptly and had considerable difficulty in avoiding a collision with the officer's car.

Ponta arrested Tardiville on a charge of driving on the left side of the highway. He appeared before Judge Acton M. Cleveland and upon a plea of guilty was fined $15.

COURT DECLINES TO FIX CONTRACT TERMS

Judge Raglan Tuttle has rendered a decision in favor of Matt Patrick in an action brought by F. W. Thomas, against Patrick, in which the court was asked to interpret a clause in a contract between Thomas and Patrick for re-purchase of property formerly owned by Thomas in Grass Valley generally known as the old Thomas Diggings.

The disputed portion of the contract reads: "That the purchase price of $20,000 is to be paid in instalments to be later mutually agreed upon as the amount of each specified instalment and the date that each and every payment is to be made."

Thomas sought to have the court decree the amounts of the instalments and the times when such instalments should be made.

Judge Tuttle ruled "it is elemental and fundamental that a court has no power to make a contract for the parties to the action or read into such contract terms omitted therefrom. It is an elemental and fundamental rule of law that a contract to be valid must be certain and unequivocal in its essential terms either within itself or by referenc to some other agreement or matter."

ALLEGED DRUNK DRIVER WILL HAVE JURY TRIAL

CAMPTONVILLE, Jan. 16.—The case of the People vs. D. E. Heron, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, will be heard before a jury in the local Justice Court before Judge Acton M. Cleveland, Monday morning at 10 o'clock, January 20. the local Masonic Hall being used as court room. Constable John Jaynes is busy summoning the jury. This is the first trial to be held here for several years, the last one being that of F. D. Terry who was tried by a jury before Judge Geo. Herzog, sitting for Judge W. B. Meek who was ill, a charge of driving on the wrong side of the highway in which the defendant was convicted. Motor violations attract considerable attention in this locality and are usually heard in a packed court room.

Heron, a Grass Valley automobile salesman, was arrested by Constable John Jaynes for driving while intoxicated Tuesday after frightening a pedestrian and side swiping the Downieville mail stage on the Yuba Pass highway.

Saftey First

Listen my children and you shall hear
Some rhymes revamped for the glad New Year;
Of course they are foolish and light to read,
But the lesson they teach I'm sure you'll heed.

Mary had a little lamb,
But it is gone—alas!
It jay-walked right across the street
Where speeding autos pass.

Peter, Peter, pumpkineater
Had a wife and couldn't keep her,
From her needless place in a traffic jam
She soared to the bosom of Abraham.

Little Bo Peep has lost her sheep
And doesn't expect to find them;
They passed a car on a hairpin turn
With a roaring truck behind them.

Little Boy Blue's away—away,
His wings go flipety flop;
He took the crossing at thirty per.,
When the signal lights said, "Stop!"

Twinkle, twinkle little star,
If you were an auto car,
I would put your gears in high
And go whizzing through the sky;
Knock a comet down perhaps,
Pav a fine like other chaps,
Wreck you on a cosmic ray
And then repent for many a day.

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

MRS. BRAITEWAITE PUTS NEV. CITY NUGGET ON AIR

Mr. Russell B. Farley, board of equalization agent and Mr. Roy Mitchell of Nevada City enroute to Downieville recently, tuned in the radio in their car on KGO with Capt. Dobbsie on the program, as they were passing through North San Juan, and were quite surprised to hear the announcer state he was to give as his subject, "North San Juan,", as the message had come to him from Mrs. Katherine Braithwaite in a letter and poem.

In the introduction she stated she was living in North San Juan and was a correspondent for the Nevada City Nugget of Nevada City. From that she went on to give history and romance of the San Juan section in a most charming narrative.

She stated her husband was a seafarng man and they missed the ocean, sand dunes and salt spray, but that the whispering pines and pure mountain air in the high Sierra Nevadas were taking their place. In conclusion a most pleasing poem she had written was read, the men riding along in their car being deeply impressed with the beauty of the narrative and poetry.
